The next membership meeting will be on March 22 at 7:30 PM at the Williamson Library at Grand Central Terminal. Meet at the entrance to Track 23 on the upper level at 7:00 or 7:15 PM to be escorted to the library, which is in a restricted area. Late arrivals should phone the library at (516) 660-1972. A $5.00 admission fee is charged for non-members. In the event of serious inclement weather, check the website www.nyrre.org or call (516) 660-1972 for cancellation information. Due to security considerations, we have to compile an attendance list for Metro North.

Mitch Dakelman presents 16- millimeter movies of the 3rd Avenue elevated line, Chicago-Milwaukee North Shore line, Milwaukee street cars, World War II era industry films and cartoons. Make sure to be on board for these film treasures!

PRESIDENT FOSBURG'S NOTES

Greetings, Railfans! March is here and warmer weather can't be far behind. Time to be adventurous and find a new rail museum or new rail line.

An enthused railfan, NOT connected with our group, somehow got to the fifth floor (for Metro North employees ONLY) and took photographs and posted them on his Facebook page. Metro North security contacted us after viewing his photos to find out if he was a member. While taking snapshots inside the main concourse is OK, taking pictures in restricted (non-public) areas is OFF LIMITS! Anybody who takes pictures of restricted areas of the Terminal will be hit with the full force of the law if apprehended.

Our continued use of the Williamson Library is conditioned on following Metro North security protocols. I wrote last month of a member who walked down the Apple staircase and onto the roadway.

Cora Sowa put on an interesting show at the last meeting. She highlighted rail travel in the Ozarks, a region not usually associated with train travel. Many fascinating ruins and relics were featured in her digital show. One intriguing feature was the street car line in Johnson City. I don't recall which state it was in, but it was well worth the wait seeing. It only goes to show that anyone who missing show misses material impossible to find elsewhere. I will see everybody at the March meeting.
